A05 - UI/UX Testing Report
24 March 2025

My testing was performed on 10 students doing 15 tasks. The instructions given were usually the name of the task but additional info was given at start depending on the task and was usually given if asked or if they were taking too long. They were not allowed to give up on a task, but when they asked to give up I would give more direct advice. Clicks and pages that led to dead-ends were still counted, but clicks on non-clickable things or repeat clicks on loading links were not.
